What happens after you submit your application?

1. Your application is forwarded to the Consulate General in Toronto.
2. The Consulate General forwards the complete application to the Danish Immigration Service or Danish Agency for Labour Retention and International Recruitment.
3. After processing the application, the Danish Immigration Service or Danish Agency for Labour Retention and International Recruitment forwards the decision to the Consulate General.
4. If a permit has been granted, the Consulate General will notify you directly. You can then travel to Denmark to have the permit issued. Please note that if you are not visa exempt for Denmark, an entry visa will need to be issued for you. If your application has been refused, the Consulate General will send you a refusal letter.

Canadian citizens are visa exempt for travel to Denmark and can enter the country without an entry visa. If you wish to travel to Denmark prior to receiving the approval letter from the Danish Immigration Service, you are doing so at your own risk. Many airlines will not fly with you if you have a one way ticket or if you have a return ticket that is valid for more than the 90 days you can stay in Denmark as a tourist. For this reason, you are advised to wait for the approval letter and that you carry the letter with you when entering the Schengen area. If you do enter prior to receiving your approval letter and overstay the allotted 90 days, you risk being fined and/or deported from Denmark. If you do decide to enter Denmark prior to receiving approval, the Embassy strongly recommends that you purchase travel medical insurance since you will not be covered by the Danish health care system until your residence permit is approved.
